

BEATTIE
PADOVANO LLC

HEALTH LAW PRACTICE

Beattie Padovano's health law practice concentrates on representing medical, dental and veterinary professionals in New Jersey and New York. Beyond the commercial transactions of buying, selling, and merging practices; hiring associates; organizing partnerships, professional corporations, limited liability companies and other professional business entities; many practice transitions also involve some form of real estate component. The Firm's attorneys handle office leasing as well as the purchase and sale of professional office real estate.

Running a healthcare practice also means managing a staff, dealing with employees and independent contractors. Beattie Padovano, LLC provides legal guidance and litigation services to health professionals in employment and human resources matters, drafting office policies and employee manuals, as well as associate employment agreements.

Our healthcare provider clients often need support on personal matters and turn to the Firm for tax advice and estate planning. We also handle professional licensing matters before state boards, licensing agencies, and hospital governing bodies.
